SYNOPSIS

Rewrite regulations of home-based businesses.

ANALYSIS

Background

Neighborhood and compliance issues in the last year have drawn attention to the text of the City's home occupation (HO) regulations. These have not been substantially updated since the 1986 zoning code update, and the current text leaves certain ambiguities and enforcement challenges. Additionally, the current text does not reflect the character of HOs in the 21st century. Council has directed that it be updated.

Discussion

The purpose of home occupation regulations is to strike the right balance between allowing residents to conduct business activity from their homes, while minimizing negative impacts on the neighborhood. This is one of the fundamental tasks of zoning in general—in business or industrial zones, the priority is given to businesses; in residential zones, the priority is given to residences. HOs are also by definition an accessory use, meaning the primary use of the property is as a residence.

Almost all localities regulate HOs, but every locality has different specific parameters based on their needs. In Buena Vista, there is a robust community of home-based enterprises that form an important part of our local economy. Currently, there are approximately 100 home-based businesses with active business licenses. See end of report for breakdown of current licenses by type. The largest share are tradesmen and contractors, followed by miscellaneous non-personal services such as pest control, followed by retailers.

The current text is very short, and takes the approach that Utype of business can be an HO, provided it is not "detrimental to the character of the surrounding area." It gives a few specific parameters but leaves too much to the interpretation of City staff, who have too little clear text on which to base their judgement. Additionally, it states that HOs can only provide products or services "produced by members of the family living on the premises," meaning no commercially-produced products could be sold. While this would give preference to artisans professional or non-professional services, this provision has been ignored in practice for many years--HO's have been licensed that are wholesalers or otherwise deal in products not produced on premises. Finally, the current text gives enforcement authority to City Council directly, which conflicts with the enforcement and appeal process for all other aspects of zoning and with state code.

Note that although short term rental units and bed & breakfasts are businesses operated from a home, they are governed by separate regulations and not by the section under consideration.

Violations and Grandfathering

Non-conforming status and “grandfathering” was discussed at length by the Planning Commission, and there were multiple public comments about a particular home-based business that has had compliance issues. Staff reviewed the expiration and revocation language in the current text and determined that it does not conform to enforcement authority granted in the Code of Virginia for zoning violations. It speaks of a permit being “revoked” when the HO is found not in compliance, but this is not a term used in zoning enforcement. It is not clear how revocation is different from determination of a zoning violation, what penalty revocation would impose, and what the next steps for enforcement would be. Additionally, staff could find no other HO codes from other Virginia localities that included separate enforcement/violation language or referred to revoking a HO permit.

Given this, the draft text treats HO permits like any other zoning permit. Expiration of permits not acted upon is already addressed by Section 802.05-3, which imposes a six month time frame. Violation is addressed by Article 11. Non-conforming status (“grandfathering”) is addressed by Section 708.03:

708.03 Nonconforming uses of land. Where a lawful use of land exists at the time of enactment or amendment of this ordinance that would not be permitted by the regulations imposed herein and where such is either:

- (1) An accessory use involving the use of no separate accessory structure; or*
- (2) A principal use involving no individual structure, such use may be continued as long as it remains otherwise lawful, subject to the following provisions:*

708.03-1 No such nonconforming use shall be enlarged or increased nor extended to occupy a greater area of land than was occupied at the time of enactment or amendment of this ordinance;

708.03-2 No such nonconforming use shall be moved in whole or in part to any portion of the lot or parcel other than that occupied by such use at the time of enactment or amendment of this ordinance;

708.03-3 In the event that such use ceases for reason other than destruction for a period of more than one year any subsequent use shall conform to all requirements of this ordinance for the district in which the land is located;

708.03-4 No additional structure not conforming to the requirements of this ordinance shall be constructed in connection with such nonconforming use.

Any HO active at the time the regulations are passed can continue to operate as it has been, but cannot expand, change operations, or move to a different building on the premises. Any new HO must meet the new regulations. If an HO ceases to operate for one year, the proprietor must re-apply and meet the new regulations.

Draft Text

Below are highlights of the draft text policies:

- 1) Enforcement – Violations are handled the same as any other zoning violation, except that the Zoning Administrator can also request that the business license be revoked. Pre-existing HO's that do not conform to new regulations can continue to operate but not expand.
- 2) Employees – allows up to one non-resident employee, but there has to be an off-street parking space for that person
- 3) Customer traffic – no drop-in traffic allowed (except wayside farm stands), max of 3 customers at any given time, and max of 12 customers per day
- 4) Deliveries – Must be between 9:00 AM – 6:00 PM
- 5) Parking – limits number of commercial vehicles, requires off-street parking space for any vehicle used primarily for business
- 6) Outside storage – prohibits outside storage of materials & equipment
- 7) Signage – allows no more than one “minor sign” (no larger than 2 sq ft) for the business
- 8) General character provision – prohibition on nuisance activities
- 9) Certain occupations prohibited
- 10) Special Exception – Allows a home occupation to apply for Special Exception, heard by the Board of Zoning Appeals, if they want to do something that is otherwise prohibited so that proposal can be considered on a case by case basis.

Planning Commission Discussion

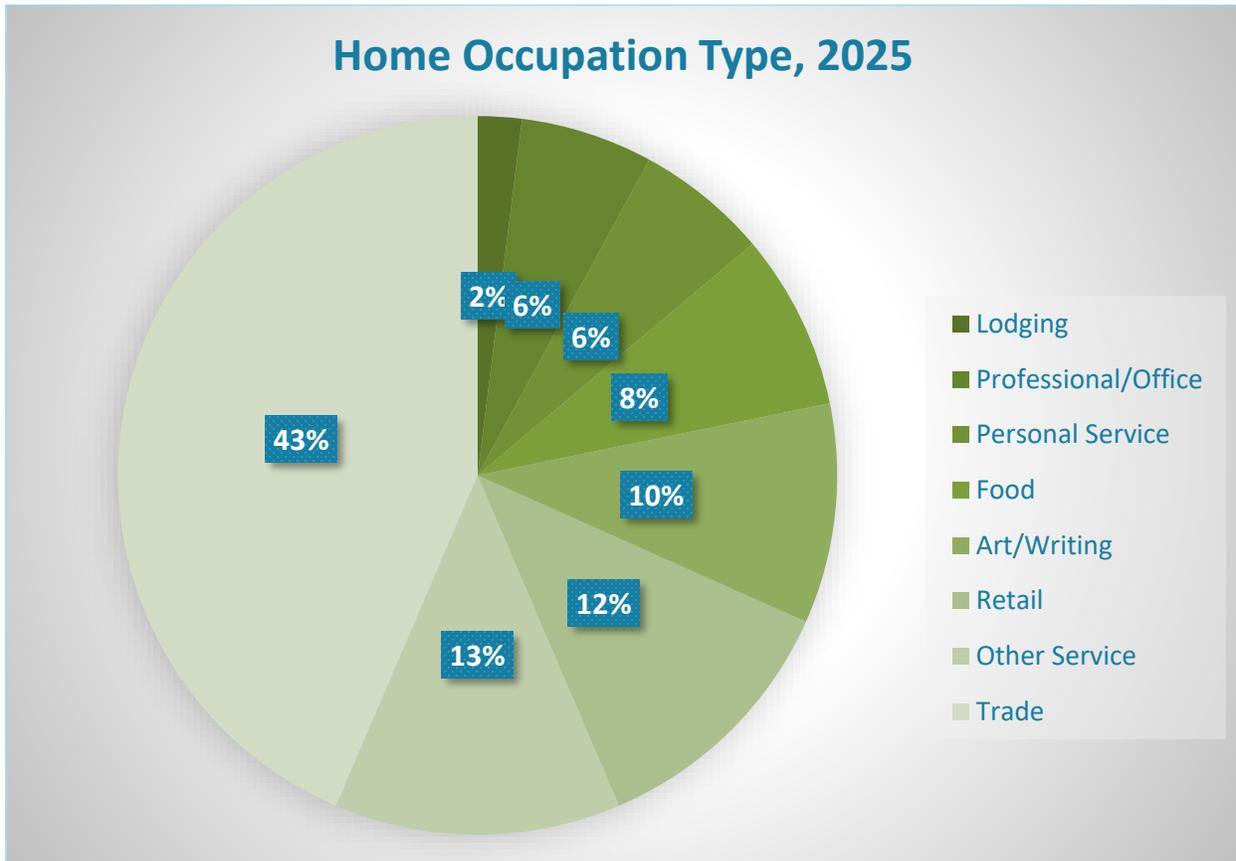

Planning Commission received public comment from multiple residents at its November 2025 and January 2026 meetings. Additionally, staff received written comments from some businesses. Many of these comments revolved around concerns about existing home occupations and enforcement. Staff believe that the draft text will prevent the same concerns with new Hos.

One of the issues discussed was the “2/12” regulation on customer traffic (no more than two customers at a time, no more than 12 customers per day). Several people noted concerns that this was too restrictive. After review, staff recommend changing to “3/12”, or no more than three customers at a time and no more than 12 customers per day. The purpose of this provision is to limit traffic to homes: the primary use is residential, the business use is secondary. If a business is generating 14 or 18 or 20 vehicles per day, even if only one day in a week, this is a substantially higher number of vehicles than would be coming to a house without a business. This level of traffic could impact the safety and character of a neighborhood, as it seems to have in Racey Acres.

If an HO generates a volume that exceeds 3/12, then it could arrange pickups or drop-offs at an off-site location. During the meeting, the Food Lion parking lot was mentioned as an option, but other locations include the Police Dept and City Hall parking lots, both of which have camera surveillance. Another option is to partner with another business that has a brick and mortar location. For example, the recently-opened Junction 245 is marketplace for home-based vendors with merchandise on-site and a full-time salesperson, but they may also be open to more limited pick-up arrangements with other businesses, especially seasonal ones.

At its January 2026 meeting, the Planning Commission recommended approval of the draft text to City Council.

Regulation

Sec. 705.00. - Home occupations.

This ordinance uses a permit approach to the control of home occupations. The use of permits is to ensure compatibility of home occupations with surrounding residential uses. Custom or traditions are not to be considered as criteria for the evaluation of home occupations. The administrator may request advice from the planning commission as appropriate.

705.01 Special requirements. Home occupation, where permitted, must meet the following special requirements:

705.01-1 The applicant must be the owner of the property on which the home occupation is to be located, or must have written approval of the owner of the property if the applicant is a tenant;

705.01-2 The home occupation shall be operated only by the members of the family residing on the premises and no article or service shall be sold or offered for sale except as may be produced by members of the family residing on the premises;

705.01-3 The home occupation when restricted to the main building shall not occupy more than 50 percent of the floor area within said building;

705.01-4 The home occupation shall not generate excessive traffic or produce obnoxious odors, glare, noise, vibration, electrical disturbance, radioactivity, or other conditions detrimental to the character of the surrounding area, and in general, shall give no evidence of nonresidential character of use other than through the use of a sign meeting requirements for professional name plates, as spelled out in section 706.03-3;

705.01-5 The building in which the home occupation is to be located must be an existing structure ready for occupancy and not a proposed structure.

705.02 Expiration and revocation. A zoning permit for home occupations shall expire or be revoked under the following conditions:

705. 02-1 Whenever the applicant ceases to occupy the premises for which the home occupation permit was issued. No subsequent occupant of such premises shall engage in any home occupation until he shall have been issued a new permit after proper application;

705.02-2 Whenever the holder of such a permit fails to exercise the same for any period of six consecutive months.

705.02-3 Whenever the city council finds that the holder of the permit has violated the conditions of the permit for one or more of the special requirements in section 705.00.
